PROFILE SUMMARY

I am a high-achieving student with a strong passion for biology, freelancing, programming, design, and creative problem-solving. My curiosity has led me to explore various scientific fields, including gene therapy research, where I have worked on innovative solutions at the intersection of science and technology. I actively participate in numerous competitions, constantly challenging myself to grow and excel. Beyond academics, I am dedicated to volunteer work and freelance projects, using my skills in design and content creation to make a meaningful impact. I enjoy simplifying complex concepts and presenting them engagingly and interactively, making knowledge more accessible and inspiring others to explore and think critically.
